The wedding ring was worn on the third finger of the left hand, from an idea that a nerve communicated thence directly with the heart. It consisted for a long time, in nothing more than a hoop of iron; but it was afterwards made of gold or bronze. with various amatory devices, and frequently with a small ornament in the form of a key, to denote that, with it, the husband delivered up the care of

But in proportion as they were the small, they became enormous in the sequel; and Seneca remarks that the sum with which Senate portioned the child of Scipio, would not in his time, have been thought sufficient to pro ide the daughter of a freedman with a mirror.

Confurreation was the most ancient. A priest, in the presence of ten witnesses, made an offering to his majety. This, though still not determined to the gods of a cake composed of salt. water, and a particular kind of wheaten flour-called Far .from which the name of the ceremony was derived of this the bride and bridegroom partook, to denote the union that subsisted between them, and the sacrifice of a sheep ratified the interchange of their vows. This mode of celebration conferred on the wife all the rights o adoption as a daughter. it gave her the privilege of assisting at the ites peculiar to the household gods of her husband; it endowed her with his entire property, if he died in tes ate without issue: and if he left children she shared equally with them.

Coemption was an imaginary purchase which the parties made of each other by the exchange of some pieces of money. This form subsisted longer than that of confarreation, which according to Tacitus, 6,000 men at Barcelona, commanded by was no longer practised in the reign of Tiberius, it a Lieut. This form, besides gave the lady the power of annulling the ma riage if during her 12 months poviciate, she repented ofher engagement; an ad vantage in which it is not quite clear that the intended husband participated.

It was not even every month, that was deemed equally auspic ous to the celebration of marriage; ey avoided the kalends nones and ides and every day marked black in the kalender; the month of February, because in it was commemorated the memory of all funeral obseques; that of March, during the Salian feasts; and above all, May: June, on all been lodged in Fort St. George and the lowthe contrary, was, of all months, considered the most propitions. The night was dark and unpleasant; but by the assistance of lamps, they vigorously prosecuted the work. Those in the well would, at intervals. call to the buried man, to ascertain if he could hear them; but no answer could as yet be heard. A general silence and solemnity prevailed, broken only by the occasional murmur of inquiry among the crowd, the hollow noise of the stones tumbling into the bucket in the well-the voice June of the workmen-and now and then the groans of the distressed man beneath! It was now mid night, and they had gone about twenty feet below the surface—the workmen in the well called again to Gerry; a breathless silence prevailed, and a distinct answer was returned. At this, a murmer of joy ran through the crowa, and the countenances of all were lighted up with hope. They now toiled with renewed ardour, occasionally calling to Gerry as before, and receiving in return distinct responses. They asked him, what distance he thought he was down? He rationally replied, 'between 40 and 50 feet.' There now remained not a doubt but he might be extricated alive, provided the stones were not arched above him in such a manner as to fall up on him when loosened; they now proceeded with the utmost caution. The resolutions requesting the members of the House of Representatives in congress from this state to vote for General Andrew Jackson as President of the United States, &c. were taken up .-Mr G Robertson moved to lay the whole subject on the table until the first of June next. His reasons were, that it would be unjust to our members in Congress who know the will of their constituents better than we do; that it would be indelicate to Mr. Clay; that it would lessen the weight of Kentucky in the next administration; that it was better to leave our members of Congress to act according to contingences; that the weight and importance of the state and the western country could, in that manner be best secured; that our members on the spot would be the best judges of what was just and expedient, &c. Mr. B. Hardin avowed his preference to Mr Crawford so long as he had any chance, and his dislike to Mr. Adams, on account of his originally operation of the forfeiture aw of the last session federal principles and his evident hostility to the growth of the West as evinced by his votes in Congress on the acquisition of Louisiana, and his conduct elsewhere upon the navigation of the Mississippi and the Missouri question. He still entertained the highest respect for Mr Crawford; but he had no doubt a majority of the people of Kentucky were in favour of Jackson, and he wished to express that preference decidedly .county of Edmundson was taken up and passed, He considered the contest between Adams and Jackson, and he could have no hesitation in preferring the latter, both because he thought it was best for the general interest and the interest of repair the public roads which may be discharged the West. COUNTER REMONSTRANCE.

The following preamble and resolution were ntradiced by P. G. Grayson, Esq. in the meeting at the Court House last Tues lay, as expressive of the pinion of those friendly to the measure of the legislature, in relation to the court of Ap peals. Two hundred and fifty persons put their names to it and forwarded it to their representa tives at Frankfort.

"Considering, as we do, that the opinion of the majority of a people is at all times the safest cri terion of propriety in regard to any measure which is to effect them; and however true, as we cheerfully admit it is, that majorities may some times err, vet, as it cannot on the other hand be denied that minorities are not less liable to error and knowing, as we do, of no safer depository than the majority, in which to lodge the su preme right of construction on all questions of difficulty, whether of constitutional or any other character; as well as the supreme right of action in conformity with such construction · supported and fortified too, as we are in this position by the reflection that it is the foundation of our unparalleiled system of government, and is the important feature in it which distinguishes it from that of all less favoured communities where despots & ninorities rule.

Resolved, Therefore, that the late act of the Legislature of Kentucky, re-organizing the court with all our ifluence.

* The resolution being drawn in haste, the phraseology of it in this particular on reflection, lid not fairly express the view of the mover.-He would have expressed himself thus: Instead of being the act of a majority,' it was his meaning to say, being as they believed it to be constitutional, and that such will be the construction and decision of a majority of the people,' &c. and he begs that the resolution may be read with this correction.—Morning Post.

Louisville Ky. Nov. 23.

COURT OF APPEALS, The conduct of this high tribunal is taken up by the legislature, and it becomes every independent and honest journalist to express his opinion upon it whatever it may be. For our part, there is no subject we deem of more solemn import to any people but to a free people, above all others, than a judiciary essentially independent. It is the great rampart against the lawless passions, and the vindictive propensities, which are so apt to incorporate themselves, with the bold and herce struggles, of freemen There is no department of the government, whose errors we would so reluctantly expose, as those of the judges. It has been beautifully said by an illustrious orator, now no more that judges are the priests of Themis, sacrificing at her altar, for the good of mankind. There is an aversion to impugn the demeanor of these officers, nearly allied to the delicacy that is felt, in accounting a ciergy This veneration for the judicial function, is no doubt salutary; it is one of the great elements of social orexclusion of Jackson as President. Mr. Daviess der. But it must have its limits, and it is the province of political duty, to know when these limits are transcended. Does the late decision of the appellate judges, denying the legislative power of altering the process of execution, to the injury of removal from office? This is no question of every day rising out of the administration of our government. opinion of those (and they are some of the highest ornaments of the Kentucky bar,) who think that it does not; that the execution is but an incident to the contract, though like the holding of the court, and a thousand other adjunts, a most important indisguise the fact, that he preferred any man who logality of this decision. It is too foreign to the arm of the law? It may be perverted: It would not be power if it were not susceptible of perversion. So may any other power of the government, the power of capital punishment, of imprisonment, of fining, and even of holding the courts be abused. Yet shall we strip the legislature of these great trusts? The appeal has been made to the people at the late election, and they have most audibly declared themselves opposed to the judicial construc THE LATE COUNTY MEETING.—The meeting sing ground, shall the people's construction of their tion. The question now stands upon more impoown government or that of the judges predominate? We decidedly say the former. Though in arguing or of the county. It need searcely be remarked, this question in the first instance, the bias ough that it is most unusual for the people of this state, unequivocally to be with the court, and it must be to be assembled at this season. They prefer a unless in most extreme cases; yet when both more deliberate course, when the roads are ine, parties have come to their determination, the legislature is bound to see the decision of the people executed. The power of removing the judges by address is a high remedial power, only to be exercised under most critical and pressing emergencies but when they have arrived, the constitution is a dead letter if it is not decisively but deliberately executed. Is this principle of legislative power worth the removal of the judges! The writer reluctantly and painfully believes it is. He is aware that the system of misnamed relief, is winding up,

> Yet this association is accidental: it becomes us to separate these adventitions companions, and to treat each according to its merits. In all this we mean no implication against the judges. We re-

sociation with the unfortunate paper system, it could scarcely find an opponent among the friends

tin the persons of its highest functionaries. But innocent error may be as mischievious, as obstinate [] against. The community must be sacrificed to no man; the Roman maxim is the marim of every truc republican; that the social safety is the supreme aw. Here we leave this pain u! subject with cu cheerful though humble testimony to the w : th and virtues of the present judges of the court of appeals. We have spoken out, because we intended to meet responsibility where it is justly expected and not meanly to evade it.

From the Argus. NOTES OF PREPARATION. A few individuals of the Court Party have been rendered perfectly desperate by the blow struck at the head of their Party by the Legislature at then ate session. The moment they witnessed the tri umph of their adversaries, their leaders exhibited all the violence of a vindictive faction. No measure, however beneficial to the public, met thei approbation, and they were resolved, if possible to make the Legislature of which they formed a part, odious to the people, that they might re-build the ruined throne of judicial supremacy upon the downfall of the people's representatives. Their plans for a summer's campaign were all arranged and of appeals (being the act of a majority*) gives us their presses set to work. Many thousands of the entire satisfaction; and that we will support it Judges' Responses were printed and circulated throughout the country, while the documents in refutation, were, as far as in their power, withheld from the public eye. A project was prepared, couched in the most intemperate, unjust and ungenerous language, and after it had been printed an effort was made to spread it on the Journals of both houses of the General Assembly. Agents were put in motion to get up public meetings at such places and in such manner as to give the world the intemperate deminciations of a few men as the voice of the people and raise a deceptive impression as to the true state of the public opinion. The farce commenced in a bar-room in Springfield. where a little upwards of a hundred men, headed and stimulated by Mr. Pope, gave forth a production that has been rung throughout the country a the voice of Washington county which contains about 2000 voters. A second meeting took place in Garrard county, a region where the Court Party has always reigned with absolute sway. The next effort was made at Louisville whence, by one mail, came a protest of about 170 men against the proceedings of the Legislature, and by the next a memorial of about two hundred and thirty applauding them. In Madison and Shelby also, we are told, there have been meetings, the precise results of which are not known to us. Neither of these counties, it is believed, is more disposed to submit to the domination of judicial assumption, when the subject is fully understood, than any of their neigh bors. But these are not all the movements which an attentive eye may mark. Arrangements are made for a frequent and general correspondence, by which that party may know its own srength and the power of their political adversaries. Their strongest men are every where to be trought upon the arena as candidates; they will make use of entablished presses where they can, and establish oth the obligee under pre-existing contracts, justify the ers where they cannot. Already, the former Editor of the Statesman has taken his post at Versailles. politics; it is a most grave and serious proposition and to him is assigned the duty of revolutionizing the county of Woodford. One of the papers in Merter for the purpose of supporting the pover of the Governor's Messages were sent to Washington enold Court in that coun y; and Mr. Coone, who had persuaded to remain at the post assigned him in Bowlinggreen, that he may illumine, with the new doctrines, the regions of the Green river country, which, in almost unbroken phalanx, has hiherto re sisted the march of Judicial error.

While these attempts are making to bring into the field the whole force of the Court Party in the approaching campaign the usual efforts are made to defame, degrade and disgrace the character of Ken tucky in the eyes of her sister states and the officers of the National Government. Let it not be thought, that we believe the great mass of the Court Party capable of the acts which we are about to develope. No; such things are done by some o the Chiefs, men who seem to have no feelings left for their fellow-citizens or their state, but those of rancorous malice and implacable vengeance. Blood Blood! seems to be the delight of their thoughts and they talk of dragooning the people of Kentucky into submission to the triumvirate power. three Judges by the use of the bayonet! But we detain our readers from the promised disclosure.

A member of the minority of the Legislature about the time of the late adjournment of the body left in a Bookbinder's shop in this place a number of the reports of the joint committee raised to inquire into the conduct of the Judges of the Cour of Appeals, folded up and directed on the back with a request that an envelope of paper should be put over them with the evident purpose of sending them by mail. By accident it was discovered, that they had writing on the blank leaves at the end of each pamphlet One of them was directed on the out side to "James Monroe, Esq. President of the United States, Washington," and on the blank leaves were written the following words:

"Sir, Our Judges of the Court of Appeals repealed out of office; the constitution of our state trodden under foot; our treasury robbed and empty, capitol burnt down, convicts in the Penitentiary and that we are happily returning to the old state of naked and starving, governor's son a murderer and the law; but may not society again demand-impe- cut throat, a deficiency of $40,000 in our revenue a denial of justice by our execution laws, a relieflegislature-think ye, will it not take FORTY THOUSAND BAYONETS to right us in politics! After an ineffectual attempt we believe it in our hearts, demonstrable as much spect the majesty of the law too sincerety to invade violence, bloodshed and war of tome; but they are tually write to the President of the Union, suggesing to him the expediency of raising an army to guilt, and requires more vigilantly to be guarded | wrest from the people, by forty thousand tayonets he power of self government! If they cannot put y ur noses to the grindstone by their speeches, their protests and their violence, they are ready to cal in foreign troops and use their bayonets upon the freemen of Kentucky! Here is the temper of the party, Last year the country was inundated with protests, speeches and pemphlets; bitter invectives and denunciations were uttered in Dinner toasts an public addresses; the press was attempted to be sitenced by personal violence; the majority were derided as a mere 'count of noses' with but a modicum of intelligence, without virtue honesty or decency. The country rose and cast down these proud Lucifers, sons of the morning; but in their fall they hurd back their anothemas upon the sovereign power that thrust them down and show by the confusion and uproar they would create, that "they would rather reign in hell than serve in heaven." But what think you, honest people of Kentucky, of these war fowls, who would control your suffrages and deprive you of the right of holding your public agents responsible, or constraing your constitution, by forty thousand bayonets? Do you think that would be enough? Do you think the Court party could govern you with the aid of "forty thousand Bayonets?" Nos no! Seventy thousand rifles will never be governed by 'forty thousand bayonets' though directed by an the boasted 'talents and information' of the country: "We'll show them that Kentucky boys

"Are Alligator horses."

But this is not all. The head that could think of controlling the freemen of Kentucky with 'forty thousand bayonets,' might well plot a FORGERY to disgrace our Government. Another of these pampilets was directed to "J. Q. Adams, Esq. Secretary of State, Washington," and on a blank leaf of Kentucky .. It was not enough, that this aged and respectable nan's son was pronounced a 'murderer and cut throat,' because he is charged with an infamous crime, but the father must be made by a vile forgery to murder his own consistency and reputation in he eyes of one who may be the future Commander in chief of the army, the navy, and the militia of tle United States! This caps the climax. It was not enough to pronounce the son guilty without a trial and exhibit a ferociors thirst for his blood which would disgrace savages: but the father is to be made apparently to destroy himself with his own hand, giving the lie in one short line, to all his public acts and declarations. Who can save the people or their faithful sentinels when they have to deal with such men, but the people themselves? Who can shield your governor, your senators, your representatives or your Judges, against the dagge s of falsehood and forgery, wielded by such assassins as this! Woe be to the people of Kentucky when such men, with such hearts and such feelings, can sustain themselves by the sword of office and wreak their vengeance on their fellow-citizens under co-

It is thus that Kentucky is disgraced abroad-not by the acts of the majority-but by the slanders, falsehoods, and forgeries of some of the minority. They predict evil and strive to accomplish it; they tell us our state is disgraced abroad and they use every effort to disgrace it. Last year some of our dorsed with remarks sowewhat similar to those which are made in these pamphlets, and some o them found their way into the National Intelligen. cer. With these pamphlets were others directed to the Governors of New York and other states. How far this shameful game has been carried on by the same hand or others, it is impossible to ascertain What true patriot is there, who would not rather excuse than aggravate the faults of his country to the rulers and people of other states and nations? And is not the man who can deliberately abuse his country and talk of controlling the people with foreign bayonets, ready for treason and blood! God forgive such men-the people of Kentucky will nark and remember them.

THE TRIAL,

Offaac B Desha is progressing, and we presume is drawing to a close. It has occupied a week. We vere misinformed in the statement made in the ast Gazette that the brother of the deceased Mr Baker was attending at the place of trial. He has not visited the state since the fatal event which has produced so much sympathy and regret.

There are circumstances attending the progress of this affair which we are constrained to acknowledge are calculated to reflect discredit on the state at large. We do not allude to the fact of the com mission of murder, horrible as it may be. For unful fact, that it should be made use of in the party disputes of the state; - and that any man or set of men, should seriously set about the business of prejudicing the public mind against an accused man, merely because his father should be conspicu ous in his opposition to their political views. That vast plain which lies between the Mississippi and speeches should be made in the Legislature by vould-be leaders of the state, with the avowed in tention of publication, and that too previous to the trial, calculated to raise the passions against the prisoner, and weaken his defence-that newspapers should teem with editorial and other essays of the same character,-that letters should be written and published with the avowed intention of exciting the public mind to a proper pitch for vengence on a supposed criminal; are circumstances, which are unparralled in our history and which we (rust will never be repeated.

There is a strong impression abroad in the state that the prisoner is guilty .- Is that any reason for denying him a fair trial! Do not our laws, and the aws of humanity require us to presume him innothat point, the caravans broke up there, and the distrustful of the mode of trial by jury. as that we must resort to novel and illegal practices to secure a verdict which will coincide with our opinious Some proceeded down the river to the Pazzo del us leave him to the fair operation of the laws; and should he be found guilty, let him pay the pen-Norte; some to the mines of Chihnaha and Du- alty; and if innocent, restore him to his family and

STATE CHARACTER.

The citizens of Kentucky are known to the other states but partially; among some, they are viewed as a semi-barbarous race, addicted to war and bloodshed; whilst to others they appear as a brave, adventurous and chivalric people. Their political firmness and originality, acquired for them a character among the most distinguished and best informed politicians of the age; and more than once they have taken the lead in important measures, and movements influencing our general government aftions, they have been sometimes looked to as calculated to lead in the contest. These are precious recollections to the hearts of faithful citizens, and should be cherished as the incentives to firmness & consistency.

nonato and parrioidal attempt is now resolutely making by a certain class of our only citizens, to ruin our character abroad, and degrade us in our own estimation by the invention and propagation of slanders and falsehoods. Not content with newspaper essays and editorial denunciations, they have published extracts from pretended and forged letters purporting to be from our sister states in which we are vilified in Billingsgate language, and their friends at a distance, and distinguished public characters have been furnished with pamphlets, and other ephemeral productions of disapointed ambition, in which our policy is misrer are industriously circulated beyond the limits of our state as if the authors were determined that we should not only think contemptously of ourselves but that we should be so happy as to agree in opinion with our neighbors, on that point .- How disgraceful-how unlike an ancient Roman-how inconsistent with the plainest dictates of duty. Let Kentucky mark those men who are so fond of degrading her, -- who are so anxious to stab her most valuable possession, her reputation; and let her keep them where, we are pleased to say to our fellow citizens abroad, they are now-in THE MINORITY.

APPOINTMENT BY THE GOVERNOR. James W Denny, of Jefferson county, to be Secretary of state vice W T Barry, appointed to a seat on the bench of the court of Appeals.

From the National Intelligeecer of the 15th inst. In the State of KENTUCKY, the Legislature has passed an act to abolish the Court of Appeals, thus legislating out of office the three Judges composing the Court .-It is said that the Judges protest against the act as being unconstitutional. This ground, we think, they will hardly be able to maintain, though the framers of the Constitution evidently meant that the Judges should not be removed by a vote of less than twothi. ds of both Houses, which, previous to the passage f the act above referred to, the adversaries of the Judg. es in vain attempted to obtain.

New Invention.

MONG the numerous kinds of useful inventions that have recently appeared before the public, subscriber would introduce that of making SPIRITUOUS LIQUORS, on an improved plan, ooth as it regards fuel and labour. So much so, that I will warrant a saving of one half of the fuel, and one third of the labour which is consumed in the old ways of distilling. Stills made in this way do not burn the spirits, and can be made to any size, to make from one to six barrels of whiskey in a day.

Persons feeling disposed to purchase rights for individuals, or for a county, of the above invention, will please call at the Union Mills, Jessamine county where they can see stills on that plan in successful peration, making upwards of ONE HUNDRED Should they wish to purchase rights, Mr. David Crozierat the Union Mills is authorized to sell them. The following certificates from gentlemen who have erected the stills and tried the plan, are offered to the public.

DAVID CUTLER,

Inventor and patentee.

January 20, 1825 .- 3-tf.

Having purchased the patent right of Mr David Cutler, on a new plan of distillation, and baving had fair trial on the subject, I have no hesitation in Steele Solomon tating it has far exceeded my expectation both in Stephens Mrs saving fuel and labor: I state farther it exceeds any thing I have ever seen: Given under my hand Talbot Maj Thomas this 8th day of January 1825: A: YOUNG:

After having a fair trial of your improved plan of distilling, I feel it my duty to state to the public that it far exceeds any thing of the kind I know of as it respects fuel, labour, and convenience. The product of the grain appears to be better, and the Walker Maria A spirit purer, than that made in the ordinary model Walk is John R Given under my hand this 17th day of January 1825: Nicholasville:

JOSEPH H CHRISMAN.

MR DAVID CUTLER: Having fully tested by experiment an improved plan of Distillery by Steam Invented by Mr. D. Cutter, I hesitate not to say, that it is far superior in point of economy both of Labour and Fuel Wimer Capt Mar in Woollock John to any plan I have ever seen, and believe the Spirit Wil lamson Wiss Eliza beth Wortham Hiram made in this way is equal to any now made in this

POETRY

I rom the Baitimore Patriot.

The Anniversary of the landing of the Pilgrims in 1620, at Plymouth. Mass. was celebrated on the 2d inst at that place. There is no event in our history, if we except the declaration of independence, more deserving of commemoration, or on which the reflecting mind can dwell with more delight, than the landing of our forefathers on the 22d December, 1620. Fettered in their social and political relations, and groaning under religious persecution, our forefathers resolved rather to suffer the partial evils and privations incident to new settlers in a foreign wilderness, than longer to submit to their then cruel situations. Accordingly they embarked and landed at Plymouth on the day above stated. On the occasion of the present celebration, the attendance of visitors. was very great, and the festival was conducted with taste and decorum. Professor Everett delivered an oration, in his well known eloquent manner, and the following Song composed by Rev Mr Pierpont, of Boston which is every way worthy of the subject and its au thor, was sung:

The pilgrim fathers-where are they? The waves that brought them o'er Still roll in the bay, and throw their spray As they break along the shore: Still roll in the bay, as they rolled that day When the May Flower moored below, When the sea around was black with storm, CHORUS. Still roll in the bay, as they rolled that day, &c.

And white the shore with snow.

The mists, that wrapped the pilgrim's sleep, Still brood upon the tide; And his rocks yet keep their watch by the deep, To stay its waves of pride.
But the snow-white sail, that he gave to the gale, When the Heavens looked dark, is gone;-As an augel's wing, thro' an opening cloud, Is seen, and then withdrawn.

CHORUS. It is gone from the bay where it spread, &c.

The pilgrim exile-sainted name! The hill, whose icy brow Rejoiced, when he came, in the morning's flame, In the morning's flame burns now. And the moon's cold light, as it lay that night On the hill side and the sea, Still hes where he laid his houseless head;-But the pilgrim-where is he?

CHOPUS. He is not in the hay, as he was that day, &c.

The pilgrim fathers are at rest: When Summer's throned on high, And the world's warm breast is in verdure drest, Go, stand on the hill where they lie.
The earliest ray of the golden day
On that hallowed spot is cast; And the evening sun, as he leaves the world, Looks kindly on that spot last.

CHORUS. Not such was the ray, that he shed that day, &c.

The pilgrim spirit has not fled: It walks in noon's broad light: And it watches the bed of the glorious dead, With the holy stars, by night. It watches the bed of the brave who have bled, And shall guard this ice-bound shore, Till the waves of the bay, where the May-Flower Shall foam and freeze no more;

CHORUS. It watches the bed, of the brave, &c.

Comment Comment LORD PETERBOROUGH.

This lively nobleman was once taken by the mob for the Duke of Marlborough, (who was then in roughly by those friends to summary justice; upon which he addressed them thus:- "Gentlemen, I can convince you by two reasons that I am not the John Burk Duke of Marlborough; In the first place, I have but George Black 5 guineas in my pocket; and in the second, they are heartily at your service." So throwing his purse among them, he got out of their hands, with loud Nathan Brown huzzas and acclamations.

Among the pupils of a boarding school, not many mi es from Philadelphia, was a boy, not at all remarkable for being one of the bright ones, but on John Craig the contrary, was a senseless, stupid kind of a body whose very appearance was destitute of animation. Elizabeth asita He was not of course very quick at Grammar, a study not the most inviting to boys of the best ca- John Darnall pacity and disposition. One day, whilst undergoing the operation of the class, the teacher endeavored to make him understand the nature and application of a passive verb,' "a passive verb said he, ex presses the nature or receiving of an action as Peter is beaten now what did Peter do?' Numscull paused a moment, and scratching his head by way of aiding Stephen French thought with the gravest countenance imaginable replied,"Well, I don't know, without he hollered!" An Irishman was asked if he would fight for a foreign cro vn; "Aye or for half a crown either,"

REVOLUTIONARY ANECDOTE Richard Penn, one of the proprictors, and of all the governors of Pensylvania, under the old regime probably the most deservedly popular, in the commencement of the revolution, (his brother John being at that time governor) was on the most familfir and intimate per ne with a number of the most decided and influential whigs, and, on a certain occusion, being in company with several of them, a me ober of Congress observed, that such was the cosis "they must all ban; together." "If you do not, gentlemen said Mr Penn, 'I can tell you, that er will be very aft to hang seperately."
